

ANNUAL OF SALE OF RED CROSS SEALS COMING

tween 9 and 10 per cent of all deaths in the state is due to tuberculosis, that is the normal death rate, those figures not covering epidemics such as the influenza of last winter. Thus it will be seen that Oregon has a really vital problem in its fight against tuberculosis. Oregon's program in this fight is essentially educational and the wisdom of this plan will be readily understood when it is known that from 70 to 90 per cent of all tuberculosis is contracted in childhood. Is not this sufficient argument for early instruction of our youth in the value of the observance of rules of health and hygiene?"

J. A. Churchill, superintendent of public instruction for Oregon is urging the support of the school children of the state, he having issued a letter to all county superintendents in which he says: "We feel that the work of the Oregon Tuberculosis Association is so highly educational, and so closely connected with the work that the teachers are doing that we wish to endorse their work again this year, and to urge that the children in the schools throughout the entire state assist in the Red Cross Seal Sale. We hope you will give this most worthy work full approval and that you will notify your teachers of your endorsement of the work."

Oregon's budget for the seal sale is $44,260, which means the sale of five seals per capita to put the sale county in the state is already organized and by the first of the month the sale will be launched in every city and hamlet.
